ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.
The jury who were sworn in for the request on the remains of Mike Kadlar, who, as previously announced in the Bulletin, was killed on the track near Wetaskiwin a week ago, brought in the following verdict: "That he came to his death accidentally by being killed by train No. 39, going north early Friday morning, and that no blame can be attached to anybody."
The Wetaskiwin Times contains the following account of the accident: "Mike was sent to watch a bad part of the track at a point about three and a half miles south of town and it is thought that he was on his way home when the train struck him, as his body was found about one and one half miles south. He was first noticed by the train hands of the morning express going south, and the train stopped and then went slowly over the remains, and when they reached Ponoks a message was sent stating that a body was lying on the track. As the Wetaskiwin section gang was making the usual run down the track after the morning express, they found a 22 rifle, which the deceased had taken down with him, lying between the rails, and about 100 yards farther south, they discovered the body of their fellow-workman lying close to the west rail with his right arm severed from the body and the right hand cut off just above the wrist. His head was also horribly cut and smashed and several bones were broken. The head was to the south and he was lying parallel with the rails. Near the body was the deceased's watch, which was running, and between the gun and the body were several cartridges and matches, but no evidence could be found that the body had been dragged."

A meeting of the executive committee having in charge the establishment of McDougall college, Edmonton, will be held this evening to meet Rev. Dr. Spirling, Winnipeg; Rev. Dr. J. A. Galt, Red Deer, and the Rev. T. C. Buchanan, Calgary.

LOCAL.

—Edmonton schools reopened this morning.
—All football players are requested to turn out for practice tonight.
—Great progress has been made on the grading for the new Canadian Northern station yards.

—Work has commenced for the erection of the new telegraph office between the Bulletin and Humboldt blocks.

—John Govenlock, of Elkville, left an excellent sheet of two-rowed barley at the Bulletin office on Saturday. It measured four feet nine inches, and is an excellent sample of grain.

—The vote on the by-law at Regina to raise $135,000 for the purpose of installing waterworks, electric light and sewerage systems was carried by a vote of 149 to 5.

—Fort Saskatchewan fair is being held today and tomorrow. Edmonton baseball team will play at the Fort tomorrow afternoon. A large number of Edmonton people will attend the fair tomorrow.

—Miss Robinson, who has lately resigned her position as principal of the Wetaskiwin school, to go as a missionary to India under the Baptist board will speak in the Baptist church here on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

—J. F. Risley has given the contract for a solid brick warehouse, to be erected to the rear of the Union bank. It will consist of two stories and a basement and will be 60 feet by 25 feet. Excavation is well under way for the basement. The warehouse is being built for and will be occupied by A. MacDonald & Co. wholesale grocers Winnipeg.

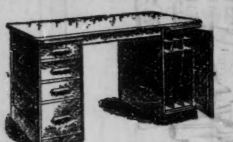

—Mr. R. Bach, who has been in Edmonton the past few days representing several German United States newspapers, left for Calgary this morning. He spent a couple of days last week in company with C. W. Satter, Dominion Immigration Agent, visiting Fort Saskatchewan, Josephsburg, St. Saskatchewan, and the Saginaw. The crops are in an excellent condition. All that is now wanted is a couple weeks of sunny weather to ripen up the grain and the Edmonton district will enjoy a record breaking yield.

—The Edmonton mock parliament spent a very enjoyable time Saturday afternoon, the occasion being an excursion up the river on the gasoline launch Alberta Belle. They went up to within a few miles of Big Island, which is eighteen miles from Edmonton by the river. The scenery along the river bank is exceedingly interesting as well as beautiful. A couple of the old timers in the party kept a number of the tenderest very interesting stories of the early days on the river. Here, in the seventies, numerous gold miners had their camps. Our informant told us of how a nearby bar had been worked, the first three feet yielding excellent pay dirt. Machines were then put on, and after three feet of sand had been dug through, there was a second three feet of very rich pay dirt. It was explained how the gold is present in fine particles, and when the question naturally arose, "Whence comes the gold?" and the answer, "That is what we have been trying to find out for years." Numerous other points of interest along the river were pointed out, and tales of the early days told in connection with them. An excellent time was enjoyed by every one.

Athabasca Coal
Telegram.
Henry Campbell, government geologist and surveyor, has made a discovery of a huge coal field on the Peace river in Athabasca, near Dunvegan, four hundred miles northwest of Edmonton. According to Mr. Campbell's report and advices from Edmonton it is reckoned that the coal district contains at a conservative estimate, some 300,000,000 tons of coal, which appears in nine foot seams. Mr. Campbell spent several months on the Peace river, surveying the land with the greatest care in order to ascertain as accurately as possible what value, if any, the land would give in coal and mineral. The difficulty of transportation of course stands in the way of the immediate development of this great discovery, but, with the advent of new railroad lines, Peace river is bound to become one of the greatest coal mining districts in the world.

FROM OTTAWA

Bulletin Correspondence.
 Resolutions providing for assistance to an all-Canadian news service between Britain and Canada were moved yesterday by the Minister of Finance and unanimously agreed to. They provide for the payment of $15,000 a year for the first three years, $10,000 for the fourth year and $5,000 for the fifth year. No promise of bonus is held out after the fifth year; and Mr. Fielding expressed the hope that by that time the Canadian Newspaper Association, which it was hoped would be established, would be in a position to secure satisfactory news service at its own expense. The money is to be paid dollar for dollar with amounts paid for news by the proposed Canadian Press Association.

The occasion of the assistance, as already pointed out in a previous letter, was the character of the news at present received by Canadian newspapers of British affairs, through the Associated Press of the United States. The news so received is of course prepared especially for United States consumption and neither deals with the subjects of principal interest to Canada, nor with Imperial affairs from a Canadian or British point of view. Consequently, from day to day Canadian papers, which have hitherto depended upon the United States Press Association for their cable news are publishing opinions which are contrary to the views of their readers as well as to their own editorial expressions, and giving currency to statements which are damaging to, and are intended to damage, inter-imperial and especially Canadian interests. That such a condition of affairs should have existed so long is very little to the credit of either the enterprise or patriotism of Canadian newspapers. At the same time it must be conceded that, situated as they are, they are not in a position to provide a news service at all equal at least in volume, to that of the United States newspapers. Their possible revenues are not to be compared; and, therefore, the possibility of expansion of revenue by cable enterprise is not within reach of anything like the same degree. But, on the other hand, it must be admitted that Canadian newspapers, especially the leading papers, are too ready to accept quantity and cheapness of news as compared with quality and cost; and further they are more anxious to impress their readers with the weight of paper with which they supply them than with the lateness and accuracy of the news which they furnish. If our leading papers would cut off a part of their paper bills and apply the money to providing a cable news service, their patrons would be better served, and it would be very much more to their own credit than to look to government assistance to do for them what the papers of every other country on earth do for themselves. At the same time, the conditions being what they are, it is certainly creditable to the patriotism of the government that they should make such an offer as a means of stimulating the spread of Imperial opinions and a knowledge of Imperial events throughout Canada, especially at a time when inter-imperial trade is such a prominent issue.

The subject of the issue of Imperial medals to members of the Canadian forces serving in South Africa was brought up by E. F. Clarke, member for West Toronto. It appears that a medal known as the Queen's medal, is given to all who saw active service in South Africa; and a second medal called the King's medal, is given to those who saw over eighteen months of active service there. This latter medal has been received by several thousands of colonial troops, other than Canadians; but, because of the length of the voyage between Canada and South Africa, it was impossible for members of Canadian contingents to earn the second medal. Mr. Clarke suggested that the matter should be brought to the attention of the British authorities. Mr. Oliver pointed out that no doubt the second medal was intended as a recognition of the services of those who had made a second enlistment, and that it could not have been the intention of the Imperial authorities that because the Canadians had to go further than any other colonial troops they should, therefore, receive less recognition. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, said that the matter had already come to the attention of this department, which had made representations, as suggested by Mr. Clarke, to the Imperial authorities, but so far without effect.

The railway estimates were considered under the management of the Minister of Finance, and a considerable number were passed without more than the usual amount of obstruction on the part of the opposition. Now that both the redistribution bill and the Grand Trunk Pacific subsidy resolutions are on the table, and the opposition are on the verge of obstructing business, it still seems impossible for them to be content with fair and efficient criticism. Hour after hour is taken up by questions and arguments which have no bearing on the subject before the House; and the business of the country is delayed because of the desire of a few members of the opposition to exaggerate their own personal importance at the expense of the country and of their fellow members.

For weeks the leader of the opposition and his followers demanded day after day that the government should bring forward its railway resolutions. Finally the resolutions were placed before the House on Thursday, July 30th. Forthwith the desire of the opposition to have their consideration proceeded with ceased, and, at the request of the leader of the opposition, discussion upon them was postponed until Tuesday next, August 11th, or nearly two weeks after they were placed before the House, and nearly six weeks after the leading features had been outlined in the public press. The unreasonableness of the opposition in this matter is on a hand with their attitude regarding others. They take six weeks to prepare a criticism of a measure, which they were not willing to allow the government six weeks to prepare; although it is one of such stupendous importance and involving such an infinitude of detail as the Grand Trunk Pacific arrangements. It shows the illogical character of the general attitude of the opposition that, while they unceasingly demanded the immediate bringing forward of the Grand Trunk Pacific proposition, and accused the government of delaying the business of the country because they did not sooner bring forward their proposals, the chief opposition argument which has so far been made against the scheme is that it has been brought forward too soon, and that it should have been delayed for a year or two at least until further information had been secured regarding it.

ST. ALBERT LIBERAL ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Liberals of St. Albert district was held on August 8th, at which it was unanimously decided to form a Young Men's Liberal Association, whose objects should be to aid in securing and maintaining good government by the advocacy and support of Liberal political principles; the study of the people and the resources of Canada, and the encouragement of the spirit of Canadian nationality.

The following officers were elected:

HERALD, August 14th.
Herb Stretch has the distinction of reporting the first harvesting in this district this year. He cut his crop on Monday, which promises a big yield. The grain was sown about the middle of April. It is of the beardless variety. Several thousand more logs arrived here from Pigeon Lake for the Northwest Lumber Company the first of the week. Both saw mills continue to find plenty to keep them in operation all the time. The firms are now doing quite a wholesale business, having shipped several cars the past couple of weeks.

John Rathbun is building a large warehouse and barn for W. H. Spackman on his lots in the south part of the town. The building is 24x30 feet, two stories high.

The rock industry continues to increase in Ponoka. J. D. McGilivray has of late experienced some difficulty in getting the rock dug and hauled rapidly enough to supply the growing demand for it.

L. B. Matusch has begun the erection of a good substantial residence on lot 22 in block 10. It will be 24x26, two stories high.

F. H. Steele returned Tuesday from a two weeks' trip to South Dakota. Farmer says he is better than ever pleased with Alberta since taking this trip back to his old stamping ground. Crops back there are very poor this season.

A young chap giving his name as Anderson and hailing from Wetaskiwin, was up before C. D. Algar, J. P., on Monday, on the charge of taking liquor onto the reserve and giving the same to some of the female members of the tribe. He pleaded guilty of the charge and was given his choice of a $50 fine or three months at the Fort. He chose the latter and was taken there by Constable Mott on the afternoon train.

BEAVER LAKE EAST
The improvements hinted at last winter are being carried out. A list of the same will be given later on.

The late rains have put the road to the Fort in a very bad state. Our government at Ottawa has a surplus of fifteen millions, but old settlers and new still flounder through mud and mire.

Crops look splendid as a rule. Some have begun haying, but the weather is certainly not ideal for the job.

Butler's Lake, which was dry a few years ago, is almost at high water mark.

Rev. Dr. Herdman, Presbyterian superintendent of missions, visited the lake lately. He was accompanied by Rev. J. E. Hogg, of Wetaskiwin. On the 9th Mr. Hogg preached to a crowded congregation in the church here. The meeting was also addressed by Dr. Herdman, on mission affairs. A forward movement was advocated very eloquently, and no doubt will be largely realized. Mr. Hogg's sermon was an able one, and was listened to with pleasure by us all, who were glad to have him back among us again. The visit of the reverend gentlemen was very brief, but nevertheless, was pleasant and satisfactory.

The festive "skreeter" has been much in evidence for some time. Travellers say they are simply awful on the big plain beyond Beaver Creek.

John D. McAllister returned from Edmonton on the 8th with six wagon loads of goods and machinery.

Messrs. Trumble and Minelle, who left their band of horses southwest of the lake, were here the past week rounding up some cattle they had got in their deals with the settlers.

Some papers, supporters of the government opposition, of course, trot out the old story of the government's opposition to the project, but the fact is, however, whatever the political aspects of the case may be, our immediate concern is with the practical.

The new line will undoubtedly give a great impetus to the great Northwest, particularly to Alberta. And as our export products—which are at present cattle, pork, dairy produce, timothy hay, oats and barley—are continually on the increase, the question of transportation, no less than that of markets, is of vital importance.

Our growing trade with Japan and the immense possibilities of the Orient as a market demand increased railway facilities, and the Grand Trunk Pacific, which, after crossing the Rockies, will pass through a country more suited to rail transportation than that part of British Columbia farther south, will, no doubt, meet the requirements of this young and vigorous nation to a very great extent.
